By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Student leaders at a Louisiana Negro college have pleaded with the 4,000 students there not to carry out a threatened mass walk-out today in support of demands for freedom to demonstrate for equal rights.

The walkout threat was made in protest to the expulsion or suspension of 18 of their fellow students earlier in the week from Southern University at Baton Rouge after a wave of student sitdowns at white lunch counters.

Marvin E. Robinson, 25, of Gary, Ind., ousted student body president, led eight student leaders Friday night in the plea for abandonment of the walkout. The eight have decided to leave the university, but all said the sacrifice was too great to ask all other students to cut off their education.

Earlier Friday Robinson had predicted the campus "will be a graveyard . . . if we get no satisfaction."

Leaders of the group were dampened by the death of Dr. J. W. Lee, biology department head, of a heart attack in a hospital. His death apparently resulted from the student demonstrations which included a peaceful march on the state Capitol.

In other sections of the South, there was activity in the Negro campaign for service at white lunch counters and an end to segregation practices generally.

Peace officers at Marshall, Tex., jailed 16 students after they appeared at white lunch counters and refused to leave. Then the officers started serving warrants issued two days ago for 57 men and women accused of unlawful assembly in a demonstration which brought fire hoses into use to disperse a crowd of several hundred.

At Greensboro, N.C.—where the Southern sit-downs started two months ago—city officials blamed two downtown variety stores being picketed by Negro students for failure to reach a solution to the eating problem.

The mayor and an advisory committee said the stores rejected a recommendation that general merchandising businesses with lunch counters operate part of the counter integrated and reserve the rest of it for white customers.

The committee report said managers of the F. W. Woolworth & Co. and S. H. Kress & Co. stores turned down the suggestion in belief that its acceptance would cause them to lose business to nonintegrated eating establishments.

A group of white students convicted Friday of disorderly conduct for lunching with Negroes at Montgomery, Ala., started back to Illinois with their sociology professor. They were handed heavy fines in city court along with seven Negroes and a white ministerial student from Boston University. The students were from Murray College, Jacksonville, Ill.

Insurance for Pensioners Turned Down

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark) stated in a recent House debate his opposition to a bill by Rep. Alvin J. Ford (D-NJ) to provide hospital and medical care for social security pensioners.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday turned down the plan.

Alford told the House:

"We do not recognize that we must always come to the federal government for an answer. That is not the American way. The way of freedom of choice, freedom of enterprise and so on is the American way."

Under the bill, he contended, "there is no freedom of selection of doctors, hospital and nursing facilities, only a choice of those presented to you."

Survivor May Give Details on L. R. Crash

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Air Force investigators will rely on the memory of a burned, shocked first lieutenant for details surrounding a jet bomber explosion here.

The B47 blew up over the city at dawn yesterday, raining death and destruction over a wide residential area.

The only survivor from the plane was 1st Lt. Thomas G. Smoak, 26, of Richmond, Va., the co-pilot. He parachuted to safety but three other airmen died. Two civilians were killed in their homes.

Smoak's parachute caught in a tree and he was suspended a few feet off the ground. He was in serious condition in a Little Rock hospital, suffering from burns and shock.

Investigating officers hoped the airman could provide the key to the mystery of the explosion.

The plane took off into clear skies on a training flight at 5:56 a.m., yesterday from Little Rock Air Force Base. Ten minutes later it exploded at 3,500 feet with the force of a giant bomb.

Bits of metal and the engines were found all over town, but the main sections of the plane fell in two locations about two miles apart. A modest neighborhood a quarter of a mile southwest of the State Capitol was hardest hit. Seven houses were destroyed by fire. Jimmy Hollabaugh, 29, was burned to death in his home.

The fuselage of the B47 plummeted into a home near a junior high school in fashionable Pulaski Heights. Mrs. Andrew L. Clark, 63, alone in the house, was killed. The bodies of the three airmen were found nearby.

Eight homes were destroyed. The Air Force said 11 were severely damaged and between 50 and 90 others slightly damaged. The airmen killed were Lt. Col. Reynolds J. Watson, 43, Athens, Ga.; Capt. Herbert J. Aldridge, 37, San Antonio, Tex.; and Staff Sgt. K. E. Brose, 25, Kewanee, Ill.

Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, 2nd Air Force Commander, went to Smoak's bedside immediately after arriving from Barksdale Air Force Base near Shreveport, La., to take charge of the investigation.

"What are you doing here?" Smoak asked through cracked lips.

"I'm here because you're here," replied the general.

Smoak was sitting in that cockpit seat," said Maj. Eugene Kelly, Little Rock Air Force Base.

'Solid South' Group to Meet at L. R.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Independent American Federation of State Parities "Solid South" political conference will be held in Little Rock this month.

Kent Courtney, chairman of the IAFSP, said yesterday that Little Rock was picked as the site after Gov. Ross Barnett called off plans for the conference in Jackson.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Barnett have been mentioned as the two men to head the IAFSP ticket for president and vice president.

Courtney is a candidate for governor of Louisiana in the April 19 general election in that state. He said the purpose of the meeting this month is to act to secure independent state rights minded electors on the ballots of both Northern and Southern states.

Principal speaker at the conference will be Charles L. Sullivan of Clarkdale, who ran third in last summer's governor's race in Mississippi, Courtney said. "We are going to show that all announced or unannounced candidates for the presidency in both parties are all the same," Courtney said. "They want to spend money on foreign aid, force integration and expand federal power."

11 Illinois Students Are Jailed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eleven white college students from Illinois making a study of Southern racial problems as part of a sociology course occupied jail cells at Montgomery, Ala., for several hours because they ate in a cafe with Negroes.

This first-hand experience with Dixie's sociological setup also brought the arrest of their teacher, Prof. R. D. Nesmith of Murray College at Jacksonville, Ill., his wife and seven Montgomery Negro students with whom they had lunch Thursday.

Several hours after police raided the integrated luncheon at a Negro cafe and hustled the group off to jail, all were released on bond. When they left the jail the Nesmiths went to the Welfare Department and picked up their 21-year-old daughter who had been cared for there.

All except the child are charged with disorderly conduct and activity calculated to create a breach of the peace.

U. S. Orbits 1st Weather Satellite

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first weather-eye satellite raced on today in one of the most perfect global orbits ever achieved, ready to feed back more pictures of how clouds cover the earth.

The first cloud pictures radiated Friday by the new U.S. satellite brought an expression of "marvelous" from President Eisenhower. They delight the scientists who had fired Tires I into its round-the-world orbit.

Taken 450 miles up, the first photographs were remarkably clear for such an experimental forerunner of what may be a network of weather watchers that could forecast big storms all over the world.

The satellite took in an enormous quadrant of the earth, centered on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Fleecy clouds spread over much of the U.S.-Canadian area.

Everything about the Thor-Able launching rocket and the 270-pound satellite worked in fine style after they rose on a thunderous tail of orange flame from Cape Canaveral, Fla. All three stages fired with split-second precision.

Tires was supposed to go into a circular orbit 450 miles out. When the checking was finished, scientists found it varied from this ideal by less than 20 miles at its high and low point.

The angle of inclination from the equator was off less than three one-thousandths of a degree.

Another achievement Friday evening also buoyed the spirits of U.S. space scientists. For the fourth time, NASA scientists at Wallops Island, Va., rocketed a 100-foot balloon up several hundred miles, where it caught the rays of the sun and was visible over most of the Eastern seaboard.

"This has been a very successful day," exulted Dr. Hugh Dryden, NASA deputy administrator. The balloon is a forerunner of a space age communications network.

"Tires sounds like something out of Greek mythology, but it isn't. The name stands for television and infra-red observation satellite."

The infra-red sensors, which can detect differences in temperature in the earth's atmosphere, were not ready in time to go into Tires I. They may go into Tires II this summer.

But the two television cameras were both ready and working. They can snap up to 32 pictures on command, a few seconds apart. These can be relayed instantly to earth stations, or stored on magnetic tape to be sent back on command. When the tapes are full, they can be erased clean to start all over again.

Little Rock Schools Now Accredited

CHICAGO (AP)—Little Rock, Ark., high schools were re-admitted to the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools today.

The schools were closed for a year and were withdrawn from the association following the row over racial integration at Central High School.

The action restoring them to membership was announced at the closing session of the annual meeting of the organization which serves as the accrediting agency for colleges and high schools in 19 states.

The Little Rock high schools are Central, Hall and all-Negro Horace Mann.

Little Rock has one other high school, the small all-white Technical High, which is not an association member.

Both Central and Hall have some token integration. Five Negroes attend Central and three go to Hall.

The association also admitted Fuller High School in rural Pulaski County. Another Arkansas school admitted was the high school at Des Arc.

Altogether, the association admitted 80 high schools. It said 27 had been dropped or withdrawn.

A number of colleges also were admitted.

Stephen A. Romine, dean of College of Education at the University of Colorado, was elected president of the association.

Says Friendship Is Still Vital

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan assured the House of Commons today he feels friendship between West Germany and France is absolutely vital to the future peace of Europe.

Macmillan declared he had said nothing on this subject on his recent trip to the United States "that I have not consistently said for two or three years to my German and French friends."

Washington dispatches have quoted Macmillan as telling U.S. State Department officials Monday he would view with apprehension the emergence of a German-French political and economic axis for dominance of the European Continent.

Hugh Gaultskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, said these reports "created a certain amount of alarm and perhaps confusion in Europe."

Political Peace Ends for Nixon

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only last Monday Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a clinch for the Republican presidential nomination, looked out upon a political sea which for him appeared completely untroubled. Not a ripple in sight.

And there was no reason to believe it wouldn't stay like that until the rough weather of the political campaign set in late next summer. Later in the week there was even a burst of sunshine from President Eisenhower.

Then suddenly there were whitecaps, blown up by one of the most conservative of all Republicans, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. What Goldwater told him in effect was:

"Don't get giddy with liberal ideas. You'd better stay conservative, or else."

Calm as the water was early in the week, Nixon seemed to realize people were wondering:

Would he try to ride into the White House on Eisenhower's shoulders, standing on the administration's record and philosophy, shouting "me, too." Or would he have some ideas he could call his own.

So Monday night he announced he wouldn't stand pat on what Eisenhower had—or hadn't—done but would develop his own program by expanding on the Eisenhower program.

This was a deft touch: It implied no criticism or repudiation of any of Eisenhower's thinking while holding out the promise of some different kind of thinking, or at least new thinking.

Still, there was a bit of a dilemma involved: Nixon has the conservative Republican backing. But he can't win unless he also attracts the liberal Republicans and the independent voters, too.

This reduced his problem to a simple question: How can he please all three groups without alienating any of them.

Goldwater got the point fast. For Nixon to attract the liberal Republicans and the independents might require him to move to the left of the conservatives. If he tries it, Goldwater said, he may lose the conservative Republicans.

Since Goldwater is a vigorous man, who doesn't mind saying what he thinks, Nixon is now alerted to the realization that he is going to be watched even before the campaign begins, and is being watched by conservatives.

One of the people close to Nixon tried to explain what the vice president has in mind:

That in carrying forward the Eisenhower program he will reflect conservative thinking while being progressive in the sense of offering constructive solutions for national problems.

This kind of explanation isn't going to have much meaning until Nixon begins spelling it out in detail.

Senate Committee Is Closed Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee is dead today at the age of 3. But some senators, notably its chairman, John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), have hopes of reviving it.

In a final report to the Senate Thursday, the committee said its mission had been fulfilled with the passage of the labor-management anti-corruption bill last fall. The committee went out of existence at midnight.

McClellan had asked that it be kept alive for another 10 months wall, interrupting a call to her neighbor's telephone, and a magistrate ordered Woods to pay the telephone company for repairs.

Reading Is Very Heart of Education — Remember That During Nat'l Library Week

By MARY ANITA LASETER

In the fabric of a nation the public library is an essential thread and next week, April 3-9, when America celebrates National Library Week for the third time, we should remember to keep that thread taut with use. We know that reading and libraries are the very heart of education. And, fortunately, in America those opportunities are unlimited. The more a person reads the more he realizes how little he knows and that his learning will be just beginning after a lifetime of continuing self-education through reading.

That last statement might sound like reading is a "lost cause" when you first see it. But it's not. And more and more people are finding the joy, inspiration, and magic of the printed word through reading.

A recent news release said, "In 1959 alone Americans bought more new books, not including comic books, than existed in the entire world before the twentieth century." So, I'm not telling you anything you don't know, as reading is something very old but ever-new.

One of the goals of National Library Week is to foster more reading activities in homes, clubs, schools and businesses. The latest books are on display at the Hempstead County Library, and posters on National Library Week have been distributed to local eating establishments by the Hope Jaycees under Mrs. Frank Chaney, chairman.

The Hempstead County Bookmobile has been doing a splendid job of taking reading opportunities to people who don't have easy access to the County Library. It will continue to make its rounds throughout the summer. To give the transported grade school children of the county an opportunity to see their "summer library on wheels" the Bookmobile will visit grade schools in Hope on Monday and Friday of next week.

National Library Week will be emphasized in various ways at the schools in Hope. Trips to the public library will be a class project for many groups. Special programs have also been planned such as the Book Parade at Paisley under the guidance of Miss Mamie Belle Holt, principal, and a play at Junior High written especially for this week by the Library Club with Mrs. B. N. Holt, advisor.

That takes care of libraries on almost all levels except that of the home. Do you have a home library? If so, you know that cobwebs aren't always restricted to the attic. They sometimes find their way to those precious books when they are infrequently used. When that happens, there are usually some cobwebs in the hidden corners of the mind, too. Let's give our minds an airing and dust off the cobwebs.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower has issued this statement: "The strength of our nation is founded in the minds and hearts of its citizens — individuals who have sought out the truth and have formed their own convictions. In this search, the freedom to read is an indispensable asset. During National Library Week, I hope that all Americans will make a special effort to seek the treasures of knowledge, ideas, and spiritual insight provided by our libraries across the land."

Galveston Plan Big Bond Election

Galveston, Tex. (AP)—A million-dollar bond election will be held Saturday and only two persons are eligible to vote in it. The election is open to resident property owners in Galveston County Drainage Dist. No. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mendoza are the only residents in the marsh-like, 125-acre area near the Galveston Airport.

The money would be used to build an artificial lake that would drain the area into a bayou. About 25 property owners want to sell their land to a development company.

Phone Whispering Angers Husband

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—George Woods, 36, said his wife talked a lot on the telephone and he took drastic steps to stop her. She said he grabbed the phone from her and ripped it from the ceiling in two days. No date was set for the next meeting.

The Guild said major studio presidents in New York had blocked settlement by rebuffing the negotiators.

Mississippi Okays Church Property Bill

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi churches can seize property from their parent denominations in racial disputes today, after passage of a controversial church property bill.

Gov. Ross Barnett signed the measure yesterday. It survived stormy passage in the legislature. The bill permits a two-thirds majority of a local congregation to ask court appointment of new trustees. If the congregation majority disagrees with higher level denomination control.

The bill applies to charitable and educational organizations as well as religious organizations. Opponents charged the bill violates the principle of separation of church and state.

Rep. J. P. Coleman said the bill would put the Methodist Church under direct control of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Coleman, former governor, said the high court would handle matters appealed through state courts on constitutional grounds.

The bill was aimed primarily at the Methodist Church, some of whose leaders have made statements their critics interpreted as being pro-integration.

Millionaire Borrows $75,000

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Lillian H. du Pont, who stands to receive about 130 million dollars from two trusts, has been given legal clearance to borrow $75,000. Chancellor Collins J. Seitz, in making his ruling, declined, for the time being, to order Du Pont, 32, to borrow the money.

The ruling came in a support action by his estranged wife, Deborah. She says the $125,000 she receives monthly from Du Pont is not enough to support her and their three children in the manner to which they've become accustomed.

She argued that Du Pont, who says he has no funds to increase the payments, could borrow $75,000. Du Pont argued that such a loan would involve exorbitant interest rates. He said other money lending firms would not make the loan because of the uncertainty of when he would receive the trust funds to make repayment.

Du Pont, a member of the chemical firm family, is beneficiary of one $5-million-dollar trust fund and, should he outlive his father, would receive another $5 millions.

Mrs. du Pont still must prove her claim before Seitz rules further.

21 Small Children Rescued From Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Five patrons and a bartender recruited from a nearby tavern and two policemen raced through dense smoke and rescued 21 small children from a blazing frame apartment house in Coney Island Thursday night.

Fifteen of the children—all of whom ranged in age from one month to six years—were dropped or handed out from windows in mothers and fathers braced and ready with their arms outstretched.

Some children were dropped from the top floor of the three-story building, and some from the second floor. But no one was reported injured.

A 73-year-old woman was overcome by smoke.

Firemen said the blaze, discovered at 8 p.m., was under control in half an hour. Cause of the fire, which started in the basement and quickly spread through the building, was not immediately determined.

No date was set for the next meeting.

Direct Move To Scrap Racial Laws

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Day Hammarskjöld, chief of South Africa's Chief of Delegation today in his first direct move to persuade the national government to scrap its harsh racial laws.

The secretary-general set up a meeting with Bernardus G. Fourie after the United Nations Security Council voted 9-0 for a resolution calling on South Africa to live in peace with its millions of Negroes. Britain and France abstained on the measure, which blamed that nation's white supremacy policies for the mass shooting of Negroes.

Fourie, who warned the Security Council before the ballot that South Africa would regard it as a "serious light" any interference in its internal affairs, said he would await instructions from his government before making any move.

The resolution asked Hammarskjöld to consult with the South African government to see what could be done to uphold U.N. charter provisions dealing with racial discrimination and human rights in general.

In South Africa, the situation remained tense. Bands of masked Negroes roamed through native settlements near Port Elizabeth calling on residents to destroy their pass-books.

Col. J. J. Kruger, deputy police commissioner in the area, warned that the situation "needed only a spark to set it off."

An uneasy quiet prevailed in another port city after Friday's clash between police and an African mob at Durban in which at least 4 Negroes were killed and 19 wounded.

The United States and the Soviet Union supported the resolution for U. N. action to resolve the crisis peacefully.

Compromise Proposed on Rights Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new compromise was proposed today in the Senate dispute over procedures for registering Negroes under the voting referee section of the House-passed civil rights bill.

Sen. John J. Carroll (D-Colo.) offered the compromise. It sounded like a compromise that Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said earlier he would support.

However, Southern senators made plain they were not ready to accept it.

Carroll's proposal would retain the House provision for unopposed proceedings by court-appointed referees empowered to register Negroes without voters who complain of discrimination by local officials.

But it would add to this a requirement that the proceedings be held "at such times and places as the court shall direct."

Carroll's proposal was offered as a substitute for an amendment by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) to require public hearings by the referees, with county or state registrars permitted to be present and make a record of the proceedings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Kefauver's amendment earlier in the week, but opponents have contended it would undermine the key voting referee section of the bill by opening the way for intimidation of Negroes seeking to register and vote.

Dirksen said he would be willing to agree to "a moderate compromise," but Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said he hadn't yet seen any compromise that would satisfy him.

Hearing Open on Doomed Rapist

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U.S. District Judge Gordon E. Young today opened a hearing on the latest effort of convicted rapist Luther Bailey to escape the state electric chair.

Bailey, a 44-year-old Negro, is trying to have his death sentence set aside on ground that Negroes have been systematically excluded from, or limited in, jury service in Little Rock, where he was convicted.

Bailey, whose home is nearby Woodson, was found guilty of the rape of a middle-aged white widow here in 1953.

His attorney, Thad Williams, Little Rock Negro, has tried a long series of legal maneuvers, including appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court, in Bailey's behalf.

One Killed, Six Hurt in Blast

HACKENSACK, N. J. (AP)—An explosion and fire wrecked a union hall and damaged three stores and offices today, killing one man and injuring six other persons.

Firemen said a bottled gas tank in the basement of the one-story building exploded, knocking out several walls and setting fire to the union hall.

The dead man was identified as "Duke" Davis, 42, of Paterson, a laborer. Davis, a Negro, was standing on the sidewalk at the time of the blast.

U. S. Census Takers Start Count Today

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1960 census army was on the march today, asking questions about the Dwight D. Eisenhower and the John Smiths.

The door-to-door canvass, a vast undertaking that is attempted only once in 10 years, will continue until census workers personally visit each of the 55 million households in the United States.

Washington's most fashionable residence, the White House, was one of the first stops on the schedule. Census Director Robert H. Burgess and the district census supervisor, Louis J. Alexis, were given an early appointment to collect from President Eisenhower the census information about the first family.

Like most Americans, the Eisenhowers prepared their census report in advance, jotting down the information on a questionnaire delivered last week by the Post Office Department.

This is a time-saving innovation of this year's census. It means the census taker merely has to copy down the data onto forms of his own. He doesn't have to ask questions.

Only three persons are considered residents of the White House: Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and Rose Wood, the first lady's maid.

The 1960 census is the biggest and costliest ever. To count about 180 million Americans and make a detailed study of the way they live and work, the Census Bureau is spending an estimated 118 million dollars.

In the 1950 census, 151 million people were counted at a cost of 90 million dollars.

The Census Bureau maintains a running estimate of the total population on a counting device in the Commerce Department lobby. The estimate as of 8 a.m. today was 179,921,434.

How close this is to the final census figure won't be known until some time this fall. While preliminary population totals for communities will be given out locally starting late this month, state totals won't be published until after the summer.

The Constitution requires a census every 10 years. The basic purpose is to decide how many seats each state shall have in the House of Representatives, based on population. The prospective realignment of seats under the 1960 census will be announced before Sept. 1 but won't take effect until January 1963, when the Congress elected in 1962 takes office.

Altogether, about 180,000 Americans have temporary jobs helping to take the census. The average enumerator, the official name for census taker, will earn about $12 a day on a piecework basis. Each can be identified by his red-white-and-blue badge and the special portfolio he carries.

Census Forms Blow a Fuse

information officer. "And if any one would know what happened, he would."

While Smoak slept under heavy sedation with his nurse wife at his side, hundreds of Air Force personnel and local officers worked to piece together the giant six-engine jet bomber.

All engines were recovered and an Air Force Flying Safety Program team from Norton Air Force Base, Calif., was examining them for a possible clue to the cause of the explosion. The plane carried no bombs.

"I don't have any theories as to what happened," said Gen. McConnell.

Investigation teams set up a special command post at a church a block from the capitol damage area. A claims office was set up in the city hall for residents to report property damage.

of the peace. Firemen ordered the cafe closed as a public hazard. Asst. Fire Chief Rufus Talley said gas heaters, electric hot plates and other equipment were defective.

The arrest of the 13 white persons was a new angle in weeks of controversy and demonstrations in the South over where Negroes shall eat. Hundreds have been arrested and scores fined or jailed for seeking service at white lunch counters and refusing to move at the request of proprietors.

Classes at all-Negro Southern University at Baton Rouge, La., were boycotted by about 2,000 students as an aftermath to the ousting of 18 for engaging in sit-in sympathy demonstrations. They flooded college officials with applications for withdrawal forms.

School President Felton G. Clark said no withdrawals would be authorized unless written or telegraphic permission is received from parents.

Negroes launched a retaliatory boycott campaign against merchants segregating lunch counters Thursday with indications it might become Southwide in extent. The boycotts started at Tallahassee, Fla., Little Rock, Ark., and Marshall, Texas.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said at Little Rock that the boycott "will remain in effect until all vestige of racial discrimination is removed from places where it is now practiced." Circulars at Tallahassee said "don't shop downtown. Dry clean it."

A shaky truce prevailed at Marshall where officers used fire hoses Wednesday to drive 700 Negroes from the courthouse lawn as a lunch counter demonstration climax.

Tornado Deaths Cut in Half

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of tornado deaths in the United States has been cut in half in recent years, the Weather Bureau reported today.

"The agency said twisters caused 588 deaths between 1954 and 1959. This was less than half the total for any comparable period in the past 42 years."

Tornadoes claimed 58 lives in 1959. The average number since 1916 has been slightly more than 200 a year.

The bureau attributed the dramatic drop in the annual death toll to "improved tornado detection and warning services as well as increased awareness of safety precautions on the part of the public."

DOROTHY DIX

Voice of the People!

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: In behalf of the many thousands of waitresses across the nation, I would like to say a few words.

Waitresses in general are respectable, decent citizens but because of a few indecent, irresponsible ones, the rest of us have to suffer. If the truth were known, the patrons are more open to criticism than we are.

I am lucky enough to work in one of the nicer restaurants. Seventy-five per cent of our patrons are the nicest class of people. However, I have been very shocked by the table manners and conduct of the children of some of our leading citizens. I judge a person's character by his table manners. In the course of serving them a meal I learn if they are stingy, honest, dependable, wife heaters or sloppy housekeepers. If you don't want your waitress to get a glimpse of the true you—better watch your table manners. You're in the public eye more than you think when you dine in a public place.

You will be doing a number of folks a big service if you print this in your column.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Why is it that people run down teen-agers?

I had an argument with my husband on this very subject the other day. Like most adults he was damning teen-agers. There are bad teen-agers, I admit, but on the whole they are a wonderful lot. Why don't adults look in the mirror and do some soul-searching before condemning the kids? You see them every day—men and women, 20 and upwards, drunk and old enough to know better. They are the contributors to juvenile delinquency.

What causes juvenile delinquency? If every adult, married or single, would set a good example by leading a decent, Christian life, there wouldn't be so much wickedness. I've been married 20 years, never smoked or drank, and followed the Ten Commandments. It has paid off. I have five children, three of them teenagers and the kind any parent would be proud to own. Children become carbon copies of their elders. I do hope you print this!

Butler Addresses Negro Students

BALTIMORE (AP)—The national conscience should be lifted by current Negro protests against lunch counter segregation, Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, said today.

In an address prepared for a Democratic mock convention at Morgan State College, a Negro institution, Butler told the student audience:

"The inspiring example of moral courage which has been set by many young people in the South and in other sections of our nation, in protesting in a peaceful but direct and forceful fashion the indignities of lunch counter and other segregation, in places of public accommodation, will long serve to remind some of the rest of us that the spirit of liberty and individual dignity still burns brightly in the minds and hearts of millions of young men and women."

Nothing Quite Settled in Politics

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—At least a couple of things seemed settled, but not quite—in this otherwise rather quiet political week.

On Monday Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Nebraska audience he would not run for the presidency on the record of the Eisenhower administration alone but would have an expanded program, of his own.

And Wednesday President Eisenhower told a news conference, Nixon would be "absolutely stupid" to try to run on his administration's record alone. But what remains unsettled is this:

1. Just how far can Nixon depart from Eisenhower's view of things—since too much difference might look like criticism—and still expect vigorous support from the President in the campaign?

2. Just what kind of program of his own is Nixon going to think up? He is trying to get a farm program different from the administration's, or so it seems. And he has listed some points he says will be issues in the campaign.

But there is still a haze—although it's too early to expect him to get specific yet, with the campaign still months away—over how he is going to make his thinking look new or different from Eisenhower's.

Nixon himself said last January at a Chicago dinner that, "great as are our domestic problems, national security and foreign policy transcend them all. Then he proceeded to defend the Eisenhower performance in both fields.

Since the Democrats have been continually critical of Eisenhower's vision in national defense, Nixon should be in a bit of dilemma saying much that is different from the President in this field. He can't join the Democrats in their criticism and he can't very well propose what the Democrats suggest without appearing to agree with them.

He outlined to the dinner five areas of the administrations' record which probably will play a major role in his campaign although exactly what his position on each will be is something he has to figure out:

1. Education: The American system is the best in the world, he said, "but inadequate classrooms, underpaid teachers and flabby standards are weaknesses we must constantly strive to eliminate."

That's all been said before. The question is: How? And right there Nixon seemed to follow the Eisenhower line. He cautioned that federal programs must not infringe upon state and local responsibility.

2. Agriculture: On this he said "there is no higher legislative priority than a complete overhauling of obsolete farm programs under which the prices farmers receive for major farm production continue to go down and the costs to the taxpayers continue to go up." But Nixon still hasn't for six months active duty with the U.S. Army Reserve.

Two Workmen Injured in Fall

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two workmen were injured by a falling beam during construction on a new church today.

Van Zuber, 45, and Van Outler, 34, both of Benton, were standing at the entrance of the partially completed St. Paul Methodist Church when the accident occurred.

Witnesses said a slab of marble being hoisted into place above the entrance knocked loose a steel beam already in position. The beam crashed down, striking the two men.

They were taken to a hospital where an attendant said the extent of their injuries was undetermined.

Both were reported in satisfactory condition.

The men work for Ernest Ward Construction Co., of Benton.

The first resident professional artist in Arkansas was John Henry Byrd, who settled in Little Rock in 1840. During the War between the States, some of his subjects were Lee, Jefferson Davis, Stonewall Jackson, and other leaders. A number of his oils now hang in the State Capitol.

come up with his own farm program.

3. Unemployment: He called for programs in which "areas of chronic unemployment can be restored to healthy, productive units of our economy."

Only Wednesday a special Senate committee of Democrats and Republicans said unemployment is a grave national problem requiring comprehensive remedial action. But they disagreed on how to handle it.

4. Social Security: Nixon said there is need for "more adequate methods for protecting the aged, the unemployed and the disabled."

Tailors Get a Wage Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—A new three-year contract gives 125,000 workers in the tailored men's clothing industry a 17½-cent hourly pay raise.

The new pact was announced Thursday at a joint meeting of the Clothing Manufacturers Assn. of America and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The pay boost is effective in June. The agreement, subject to union ratification, also provides improvements in hospitalization, life insurance and other benefits. Workers now average $1.77 an hour.

An industry spokesman said the pact probably will mean a "modest increase" in the price of men's tailored clothing.

What's in Store for TV Viewers

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

1101 N. WOOD (AP) - What's in store for TV viewers' next season? A good man to ask is Tom McDermott, this bright fellow who looks like a Madison Avenue head butters, has been responsible for many top shows as anyone in TV. First as TV buyer for a leading ad agency and now as seller for Four Star Productions, he has viewed the trends from both sides of the fence.

With the network programming pretty well set—sponsors do little fall shopping early—McDermott paints this picture of the 1960-61 season:

1. A sharp turn toward situation comedy.

2. Just about as many Westerns, but fewer new ones.

3. Slight decline of the private eye epics.

4. Fewer dramatic shows and specials.

5. Scant hope for more varied programming, including better public service shows.

"The trend toward situation comedy shows is marked, but not explainable," said the transplanted New Yorker. "Four Star itself has at least two new ones starring Peter Lind, Hayes-Mary Healy and Tom Ewell, possibly another with Gertrude Berg."

McDermott conceded that the comedy trend may be to offset the growing criticism against violence on the home screen.

"Otherwise the congressional investigations, and other criticisms of TV has brought little change in programming," he said. "The situation is worse today. The trend has been for the networks to gain more and more control over their shows. This creates more of a monopoly situation than before, so that three men virtually dictate what is seen on the nation's TV," he added.

Conway Plant Blast

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) - An explosion in the city light plant resulted in minor damage to the building yesterday.

Plant superintendent Walter Scales said the explosion happened when an unidentified employee was trying to start a gas-line engine. The employee was not injured.

Arkansas production workers earned $1.52 per hour on the average in manufacturing industries during February, 1960. This was 31 percent less than the $2.20 an hour that U.S. workers earned

BIG FIBERGLASS BOAT BREAK FROM TRADITION

By WM. TAYLOR-McKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating
MOOREHEAD CITY, N. C. - (NEA) - Fiberglass hit the big boat big time with the launching at Moorehead City of the largest reinforced plastic cruiser built on a production line.

The boat is a Halleras 41-foot sport fisherman. Hull and cabin are constructed of plastic. Small runabouts made of the new material can be found from coast to coast, but big pleasure

This new boat with twin 275-horsepower engines is expected to travel more than 35 miles per hour. Gibbs and Cox, marine architects for the liner United States, were consulted by designer Jack Hargrave to be sure strength factors would assure a sturdy hull.

Boating is a family affair and a fisherman with this boat can sleep six. The cabin divides into three staterooms. A stail shower is provided.

Fiberglass construction, with no need for frequent painting and varnishing, should cut upkeep costs and help the boatman afford the $35,000 cost. Other accessories included in this price are a flying bridge with topside controls duplicating those in the cabin, hot and cold running water, and wiring for 110-volt appliances.

Today's fisherman can go to sea and still take along a good many of the comforts of home.

Program Was Not a Quiet Who-Dun-It

TELEVISION IN REVIEW
By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) - For those who swing only with the quiet underplayed mysteries, "The Bat" will never do.

But for those who enjoy their who-dun-its in the all-out, no-does-dare style, where characters have names like Courtleigh Fleming, hands reach through windows, shadowy figures dash down corridors, people streak up and down stairs while old women shriek and heroes hold their chins high, Thursday night's production of "The Bat" should have been perfect.

I thought the 30-year-old mystery melodrama classic by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood got NBC-TV's "Dow Hour of Great Mysteries" off to a delightfully spooky, exciting start.

Walter Kerr's adaptation received a staging that made no attempt to conceal or soften a story that has been made to seem rather primitive and quaint with the passage of the years. In fact, the opposite was true. The production by Robert Sander Associates used those very fundamental touches - the creaking doors, thunder, dark hallways, hidden rooms, dead bodies and furtive glances - to make "The Bat" a captivating entertainment.

They don't write 'em like that anymore. (And if they do, they don't get them produced.) But the suspense-building tricks still work. The plan that scared audiences three decades ago had plenty of scary bits of business to offer Thursday night, thanks to the high-ended, busy staging by Paul Nickell.

The cast that made it burn included Helen Hayes, Jason Robards and Margaret Hamilton. Miss Hayes was just right as the shrewd, indomitable Cornelia Van Oren. Miss Hamilton, as usual, was excellent as a nervous wreck named Lizzie. Robards didn't enter into the spirit of the play as taxes from petroleum and petroleum products account for more than 30 percent of all Arkansas state tax revenues.

He was firing back, of course. And inside the bank, a gun went off again and again.

Fletcher Trow came backing out of the bank. Crowding him was Charr Meechem - Charr Meechem, his face already bloody.

Paul Shay was the last man out. His left arm hung limp at his side, but his right held a revolver that he was firing into the bank.

Five minutes later Fletcher Trow, wearing only his customary single revolver, rode past. He tied his horse to the hitchrail in front of the bank, but did not approach his deputy. He stood carelessly on the other side of the bank door. The mayor and the prosecuting attorney were still in the bank.

They came. They came from the north. They crossed the railroad tracks, rode down toward the bank at an easy canter.

There were three. Paul Shay, MacDonald Pierson and Charr Meechem.

Looking neither to the right nor the left, they rode up to the bank and dismounted. Tying their horses to the hitchrail, they headed for the door of the bank. Before they reached it, Fletcher Trow appeared and went into the bank.

The former bushwhackers were only feet behind Trow.

Tom Chaffee remained outside the bank.

Bokker took a last look at the millinery shop across the street, drew a deep breath and started for the bank.

A gun banged inside the bank. Bokker's gun was in his hand. He started running toward the bank. And even as he ran he saw Tom Chaffee move forward to block the door.

Another gun went off inside the bank. Glass crashed simultaneously.

The shot in Chaffee's hands was pointed at Bokker.

At the moment of the crashing of the glass, Bokker threw himself sideways. The shotgun boomed and a tiny pellet stung his face. But he had missed the main part of the blast. Then his Navy gun barked.

Chaffee staggered. His convulsing finger pressed the trigger of the shotgun once more. The charge went across the street, breaking glass in a store.

Chaffee reached for one of his Navy guns. Bokker shot him gain coldly, savagely.

There were men on the street; they already knew what was happening, were converging forward upon the bank. Men were coming out of stores.

Chaffee went down and Bokker continued forward. The door of the bank burst open and MacDonald Pierson came leaping out. A wild cry rose from his throat.

The old guerrilla yell, the yell of the old Quantrell riders that had turned the blood of so many people in recent years.

Pierson did not even see Bokker. He rushed for the horses. He fired indiscriminately at approaching Pawnee City men. They

He was firing back, of course. And inside the bank, a gun went off again and again.

Fletcher Trow came backing out of the bank. Crowding him was Charr Meechem - Charr Meechem, his face already bloody.

Paul Shay was the last man out. His left arm hung limp at his side, but his right held a revolver that he was firing into the bank.

Parker Case Discussed by Committee furnished Mississippi authorities with admissions from some of the men who took part in the Mack Charles Parker lynching, testimony of FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover disclosed today.

Parker, a Negro, was taken from jail in Poplarville, Miss., last April 24 and slain. A county grand jury refused to investigate. A federal grand jury returned no indictment.

Hoover, reviewing the case recently for a House Appropriations subcommittee, disclosed for the first time that his agents had obtained statements as well as identifying the participants.

"The Many Sides of Mickey Rooney" were exposed to a CBS-TV special Thursday night.

The hour offered Mickey a chance to act, sing, dance and do comedy. He proved that he is undoubtedly a great guy to have at a party, or on a night club stage.

Much of Rooney's humor, however, is the sort that schoolboys go in for. It involves such delicate touches as nose-wiping, garlicky breath and the drunk act. It draws easy laughs - I laughed, to - but it is the sort of laughter that has mental reservations.

The show's pace, crisp at the start, wilted before the half-way point and never managed to perk up again. Assisting Mickey were Joe Forman and Gloria De Haven.

Historians may be interested to know that when Mickey impersonated a drunk in one sketch, he opened with "Which way is it to The Jack Paar Show?"

Joe F. Brown served as host Thursday night for ABC-TV's vaudeville special, which featured a number of acts in the one-hour Bertram Mills Circus of London. The performers were brisk, daring and clever and although inadequate lighting diminished the effectiveness of the performances, it still adds up to a delightful show for children of all ages.

The Channel Swim: A one-hour musical series, "Carnival On Ice" takes over NBC-TV's "Sunday Showcase" slot for the summer season.

"Dennis the Menace" will be known as "Dennis the Pickle" when he arrives on British TV screens. "The Renegade," a half-hour series about a pair of free-wheeling adventurers bouncing around during the Civil War, is in preparation for NBC-TV's fall schedule. Steve Cochran and Richard Ney co-star.

Cleto Marx and football star Tom Harmon will be featured on ABC-TV's "Championship Badge" series early next season.

Actor-playwright Howard Lindsay serves as narrator of "Mark Twain's America" on NBC-TV Friday, April 22.

Tuesday Weld and Agnes Moorehead have starring roles in CBS-TV's "The Millionaire" on Wednesday, April 20.

"I Shall Keep This Lent"

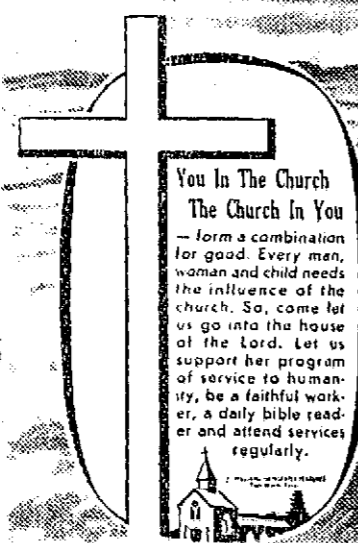

"Lent" means spring. It is an old Latin word which means a fasting period next before Easter... a time for the conditioning of our soil and for our souls to become penitent. It means the spading up time, the season for planting seeds and blooming trees.

In the realm of the spirit it is a call to get ready for beauty and goodness.

Who of us is satisfied with what he has been or is? Then let us clear away the rubbish... turn under the old stalks of last year's crop. May we learn from our Lord, to give ourselves during Lent to good meditation.

For the miracle of Lent is repentance leading to newness of life. Saint Mark said, "I shall keep this Lent, and hope to refresh my soul."
